

Late Medieval Hylomorphism: Matter and Form, 1300–1600

Sponsored by:
KU Leuven Internal Fund, grant C14/20/007

DE WULF-MANSION CENTRUM

KU LEUVEN

<https://hiw.kuleuven.be/dwmc/conferences-lectures/hylomorphism>

International Hybrid Conference Institute of Philosophy, KU Leuven, Belgium

Thursday, June 9th

14:00-14:50 Aurora Panzica (Fribourg):

An immaterial matter? Aristotle and his medieval commentators on the sphere of fire

15:00-15:50 Maxwell Wade* (Boston College):

The Bones of Heaven: Formless matter and the rejection of hylomorphism in Gersonides

16:00-16:50 Maria Sorokina (EPHE):

Celestial matter and the seven days of creation

break

17:10-18:00 Peter Hartman (Loyola Chicago):

Durandus of St. Pourçain on the ontological status of a composite

18:10-19:00 Richard Cross (Notre Dame):

Relations and reductionism in late medieval hylomorphism

Friday, June 10th

10:00-10:50 Charles Girard* (Geneva):

Walter Burley's conception of form and the Liber Sex Principiorum

11:00-11:50 Luciano Micali* (Helsinki):

The discussion on matter and form in Jean Gerson's Centilogium de causa finali

12:00-12:50 Nicholas Westberg (Boston College):

Francisco Suárez on the distinction between act and potency within prime matter

lunch break

15:00-15:50 Sylvain Roudaut (Stockholm):

Can accidents alone generate substantial forms?

Twists and turns of a late medieval debate

16:00-16:50 Kamil Majcherek (Toronto/Cambridge):

Can something new be produced by moving things around?

Local motion and the problem of the metaphysical status of artifacts, 1300-1500

17:00-17:50 Roberto Zambiasi* (Torino):

The impact of the 14th-century "piecemeal" conception of substantial change on minima naturalia

conference dinner

Saturday, June 11th

morning excursion in Leuven (optional)

14:00-14:50 Thomas Jeschke (Cologne):

Pluralism of forms, souls, and powers in 15th- and 16th-centuries Padua:

An orientation map

15:00-15:50 Anna Tropia* (Prague):

Unity of the soul and plurality of the forms:

A revival of old debates in two Jesuit tracts on the soul (1564-1569)

16:00-16:50 Adam Wood (Wheaton):

Faculties of the soul and Descartes's rejection of substantial forms

break

17:10-18:00 Gabriel Müller (Nijmegen):

Sébastien Basson on Aristotelian quarrels over hylomorphism

18:10-19:00 Helen Hattab* (Houston):

Individuation and new matter theories in late 16th- and early 17th-century scholasticism

Practicalities:

All times are in Central European (Brussels) Time.

The conference is Hybrid. Asterisks in the program indicate remote presentations.

Physical location: KU Leuven HIW, Raadzaal.

To register, please visit our website.

Questions?

Contact the organizers:

Zita Toth (zita.toth@kuleuven.be),

Russell Friedman (russell.friedman@kuleuven.be),

Nicola Polloni (nicola.polloni@kuleuven.be)

